Her majesty approves concluded his conference with the queen regent. Her majesty approves the general lines of the reply of Spain to America's peace terms, which Sonor Sayasta explained to hor.

The reason for postponing the cabinet council until of clocked Sunday evening was that the note was not yet fully drawn up. The government believes that the United States will accept Spain's answer, which will certainly reach the white house by Tuesday. Happenings at the Beautiful Camperonuds.

netence Public Ledy Ruggles Camponounds, } August 6th, 1898.

Editor Public Ledger: Oh this delight ful morning when the birds are singing so sweetly! It seems as if the trees are full of them, and they vie with us in the enjoyment of the beautiful sunrise and enjoyment of the beautiful subrise and in the praising of Almighty God for the beautiful land in which we live. It is charming, indeed, when one is awakened in the early morning by the songs of the soul wafted in the air as God's children assemble at break of day giving thanks for all God's mercles

When you hear that we campers are out here waling in mud up to our knees at our tent doors don't helieve easy thing of the kind. It is true we have had many showers but they have not been as heavy as you have had at home nor as lasting, and then it is the nature of nor as lasting, and then it is the nature of this ground to dry quickly and in a few hours it hardly looks as if it had rained at all except where the wayons have cut deeply in the ground. So do not be de-terred from coming out here by any such reports for they are false in every par-ticular. If you do not believe that this is a charming spot just consult with Captain James K. Lloyd, who has just Capital James K. Lloyd, who has just and in my experience of twenty-nve year raturned home but who will hurry back that he may miss as little as possible of the pleasure he and his family are onjoy ing here. But few persons know how near we are to the famous Kirk and other springs Why Miss Lou Powling and Miss King Why Miss Lou Powling and Miss king make their regular morning drive to thesa springs to drinh of their health-giving waters, and return feeling greatly benefitted. Mirs. Carrie Davis, who was so very ill when she came to the camp and who, it was thought at one time in the meeting, would not live to get back home, is now much improved and is able to get about. She says she doesn't want to get about. She says she doesn't want to leave the Campgrounds. She gives great praise to Brother Harrop who has basn har constant attendant and has comforted har so much in her affliction. These grounds are only beginning to be known but not many years hence with proper attention they will be doubly attractive. Thursday being our twenty fifth anni versary the day was given over to its celebration, and Brother H. C. Northcott, the founder of these Campgrounds, was the speaker of the day Taking for his text, "What Hath God Wrought," he went back twenty five years ago when he and old Brother Ruggles—then the owner of the grounds—came out on his farm to select this tract of ground that it might be set apart for God's service. This discourse will appear in Turk LENDORR, as Brother Northout than agreed to furnish it for your readers and it will be enjoyed, because this good old servant of God is so well known all over this District, he having preached over the greater part of it for the last thirty-five or forty years. These grounds will ever stand a monoment to his faithful services to God and the Church, and now lo his declining years it must be traity graffying to him. as it is to us, to see what God hath wrought through his instrumentality.
